Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 14 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rain and cloud clearing from the east. Sleet later.

Today:
Rain, locally heavy this morning, will clear eastwards during the day. Rain will likely turn to sleet for a time this afternoon, most likely in the west. Becoming brighter in the east but still cold. Icy initially. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Any rain, sleet or snow should clear this evening. Cloud will begin to fade leading to briefly clear skies before a risk of frost and fog later. Becoming bitterly cold. Minimum temperature -4 deg C (25 deg F).

Friday:
A cold day ahead with areas of fog clearing to patchy cloud and some sunny spells. An early frost is likely before clouds build and winds begin to strengthen later. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Windy with rain and snow on Saturday, this possibly disruptive. Mainly dry, bright, but cold on Sunday. Bright and a little milder with light winds on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.